English has four skills that are listening, speaking, reading and writing. 'To speak is to listen and to write is to read.' Without the integration between these four skills, English will be clueless. In our Egyptian environment, students believe that English only consists of two main parts that are Grammar and Vocabulary (it is reading and writing). Even the educational system supports this notion through dull curricula, teaching methods and exams that only measure reading and writing. When students come to TOEFL or IELTS, they do fail in the very critical skills which are speaking and listening.

These skills are going to help them pass tests like TOEFL or IELTS to apply for abroad universities after graduation or working in industry where English is mainly used. In addition to inspiring students with the language that will help them exchange experiences with other people from different cultures through the social media and support students of practical colleges like medicine or geometry where English is the study language.
